

Website Launch

Wednesday, 19 November 2008

Â

VitreTech is proud to announce the launch of its new website www.vitretech.com. With this website, we believe that we can better stay connected with our valued customers by keeping them up to date with our ever increasing lines of products, services, promotions, and company news and milestones.

Â

Even though we're proud of what we've accomplished with this website, we consider it as a stepping stone to a greater endeavor; that being the expansion of the website's functionalities to display our full product line in the form of an online catalog along with pricing. Stay tuned for these changes to take place in the very near future!

Â

It is also with great pleasure that we announce our partnership with i2v Inc. who made the development and launch of this website as smooth and pleasurable as it can get. Thank you!